Biblical belief (immuna/faith) is not mere acknowledgment but a deep trust in God that produces action — faith does.

James 1:1

“

Real belief is a deep trust in God that does something.

James was transformed from a cynical skeptic of his brother Jesus to a fully devoted servant after encountering the risen Christ.

1 Corinthians 15:7

“

If you believe the speed limit was 45, then you would go 45. If you believed it, you'd actually do it.

True faith is demonstrated through servant-hearted humility — James identified himself as a servant, not as the brother of God.

Philippians 2:7

“

He's gone from knowing about him. To really knowing who Christ really is.

The book of James is not about religious rule-keeping but about loving Jesus and letting genuine faith produce action — even unto death.

“

Would we as a church. Would we remember who we are? We are God's children. Not because of anything we've done. Only because of what Christ and Christ alone has done.
